GILLIS James Judge  FC 23 MAR 1881
Over 50 yrs ago, James L. Gillis, now Judge Gillis of Iowa, was one of the men tried for the abduction of William Morgan, the betrayer of the secrets of Masonry. Nearly all arranged in the trial of his alleged abductors came to some sudden end, and Judge Gillis long since survived all those who were associated with him. A few years ago one of his sons was called to the door and shot down...week before last, another was shot in the same way, and the judge and his friends firmly believe the tragedies trace back to the Morgan affair. Judge Gillis is father of Mrs. S. A. Porter of Mayville.

Funeral held Thursday afternoon, January 30th, burial at Hanover Center

McQuillan James
For 15 years the faithful flagman at Lion Street crossing, shot himself through the temple in Robert McKay's barn...aged 55. His mother resided on a farm in south part of Pomfret & married Dea. Johnson for her second husband. Her death left James with no near relatives...The poet B. F. Taylor, a few years ago, while boarding at the Eastern Hotel, overlooking Lion Street crossing, wrote a beautiful tribute to the old flagman's faithfulness...which will be republished.
